Blue Peter's Summer Expedition to Bolivia

Under 16s just £2

This year the popular BBC children's television programme Blue Peter visited Bolivia for their annual summer trip. The four presenters spent a month travelling around the country, seeing places such as La Paz, Lake Titicaca, Potosi, the Salar de Uyuni, Chapare, Rurrenabaque and Santa Cruz.

This is probably the first time that such a large audience of children have been introduced to Bolivia. The 9 programmes, transmitted in October and November, seek to discover the country through the eyes of Bolivians and their children. Blue Peter visited a family living in the jungle and the Tahuichi Football Academy in Santa Cruz. Exciting news is that Blue Peter presenter Andy Akinwolere is hoping to come along to join Debbie Martin, the director, and Audrey Neil, the series producer, to talk about their experiences on the trip and show clips from the TV programmes. Blue Peter presenters lead hectic lives that things change at the last moment, but he is scheduled to come.
